Report: Communication skills in medical practice

A value added course on 'Communication skills in medical practice' was conducted on 6th to 8th June 2024 in Hospital lecture hall of Index Medical College, Hospital and Research Centre, Indore.

The course was conducted for first year post graduate students of 2023 admission batch.

The speakers of the course were Dr. Rahul Tanwani (Professor Surgery), Dr Swati Prashant (Professor, Pediatrics), Dr M Sayyad (Asso. Professor, Surgery), Dr Gourav Saxena (Associate Professor, Surgery) and Dr Swati Saxena (Asst. professor, Ophthalmology)

This course was conducted for 16 hours, which included 16 sessions of one hour each. The total number of participants attending the course was 128.

The modules for this course were as follow:

- Role of communication skills in medical practice
- Life and sufferings of a patient
- Proper verbal and non-verbal communication with patients
- Different types of conversational skills
- How to break a bad news?

Proper communication with patients is the key to success of doctor-patient relationship. Every doctor starts learning right from his student life. A major part of this art is learnt subconsciously, merely by observing the communication of teachers, seniors and colleagues.

A methodical training of this art will certainly lead to a better outcome. With this intention, this training programme was conducted for first year PG students of Index Medical College, Indore.

Students were first informed about the real meaning of good communication with patients. Every patient desires that his doctor should listen to his problems properly and should be confident while explaining him about his disease and treatment. This is possible only if doctor is aware of proper verbal (language) and non-verbal (body language) while communicating with his patients.

Dr. Gourav Saxena
Malwanchal University
Indore (M.P.)

Similarly, a doctor should be well aware about the following skills –

- Proper verbal and non-verbal communication with patients
- How to ask questions to patients?
- How to explain the patient about his disease?
- How to deal with angry patients?
- How to break a bad news?

All these skills were taught to the students systematically, along with many real-life examples for each skill. Similarly, students were trained about how to converse with their seniors, colleagues or junior in front of patients and their relatives. (Bed side conversation)

Students were also informed about how to deal with some special situation like how to break any bad news to patient or his relatives, or how to deal with any angry or upset patient.

At the end of this course, the participants learned about:

- Proper verbal & non-verbal communication with patients
- How to ask and explain?
- How to deal with angry patients?
- How to break a bad news?
