Overview of Topic

Human Values and Ethics are essential concepts that guide our actions, decisions, and interactions with others. They are the foundation of how we navigate the complexities of life, influencing how we treat ourselves, others, and the world around us. Below is a comprehensive breakdown of the topic:

Human values refer to the fundamental principles, beliefs, and ideals that guide human behavior and decision-making. These values are rooted in the recognition of what is considered morally good, beneficial, and worthy of respect. They are often shaped by culture, society, family, and personal experiences but also transcend these influences to some extent by connecting with universal ideals. Therefore, there is a need to create high quality practices and environment backed with human values and professional ethics in Higher Educational Institutions. Keeping this in mind, our college has started a non-credit course on Human Values, Ethics for all students.

Objectives

After the course, the students will be able to,

- To instill a sense of responsibility, honesty, and integrity in individuals.
- Encourage people to act with consistency and fairness, upholding moral principles regardless of circumstances.
- To emphasize the importance of respecting each individual's rights, freedoms, and dignity.
- Encourage recognition of the inherent value of every human being, regardless of background, identity, or status.
- To foster the principles of equality, justice, and fairness in interpersonal and societal relationships.
- Support the idea that ethical behavior should contribute to reducing inequalities and promoting social equity.
